Excerpt from Journal

Office of the Legislative Counsel

Friday - 29 March 1963

1. (Internal Use Only - JSW) Talked again with Robert Smart, House Armed Services Committee staff, attempting to determine Chairman Vinson's thinking concerning introduction of our early retirement legislation. As Mr. Smart had indicated before, Mr. Vinson wishes to wait for what he believes would be a propitious time to have the legislation introduced. Mr. Smart indicated we should have no concern that this will delay things in the long run and assured me that this is very much on the Chairman's mind to introduce it at the proper time. The reference to no real delay stems from the fact that in accordance with schedules which have been in effect since the first of the year, the Committee will be unable to hold hearings on the legislation until at least the first of May.
